In order to gain a deeper insight into the typical study areas during the last two semesters of their training, students are offered to choose either the North American Studies Stream or the English Studies Stream. The English Studies Stream is divided into a British Literature and Culture Track and a Linguistics and Communication Track. Students of the English Studies Stream, however, enjoy considerable freedom to take courses offered by the other track of the stream or to attend courses offered by the North American Stream.

Those choosing a track are required to fulfil 5 subjects of the track of their choice, 4 more subjects can be chosen from either of the English Studies Stream tracks (British Literature and Culture or Linguistics and Communication Track) or from the North American Stream.

FINAL EXAM

The final exam comprises five parts (out of the three parts II.1, II.2 and II.3, only two will be included in the exam, as shown below):

- I.1 Language Skills Assessment (written)
- I.2 Language Skills Assessment (oral)
- II.1 British culture and civilization (oral)
- II.2 American culture and civilization (oral)
- II.3 Linguistics and communication (oral)
- III. Defense of the Thesis

The performance of each of the examinees shall be assessed by an examination committee through a scale of five grades (1-5). The final grade of the state exam shall be calculated as the mathematical average of the individual grades received in the following five exam-parts: Language Skills Assessment (written), Language Skills Assessment (oral), Defense of the Thesis and, out of the three parts II.1, II.2 and II.3, the respective part corresponding to the stream specialization of the examinee, and one of the remaining two parts (decided by drawing lots on the premises on the day of the examination). If any of the individual grades is a failing grade (1), the overall grade of the state exam shall also be a failing grade (1).

The written exam shall precede the oral exam; passing the former is a precondition of taking the latter form of Language Skills Assessment. The result of the state exam shall be announced by the chair of the examination committee at the end of the oral exam.

Detailed description of the Final Exam

I. Language Skills Assessment

The purpose of this part of the examination is to measure the language proficiency of English majors in areas related to their stream specialization field. Based upon the criteria for Level C1 of the Common European Framework of Reference for Languages, the following skills in functional language use shall be assessed:

Written text comprehension (acquisition of information, search for and identification of arguments): The examinee can understand each detail of a wide range of texts that belong to his/her field of specialization.

fi]Writing: The examinee can express him/herself in clear, well-structured text on topics related to his/her field of specialization, can highlight essential and important issues, can support his/her views with complementary ideas, arguments and appropriate examples, and wind up his/her train of thought with an adequate conclusion.

Spoken production: The examinee can present clear, detailed descriptions of specific complex subjects by integrating sub-themes, developing particular points and rounding off with an appropriate conclusion. S/he can use his/her broad range of language skills to select the linguistic forms and style required and appropriate for the message. S/he can consistently maintain a high level of grammatical correctness even in a continuous process of communication.

The comprehension of spoken English during the examination shall not be assessed separately. However, in the course of spoken interaction, the examinee is expected to follow the examiners and to respond to questions asked in an acceptable manner.

Exam parts

The exam comprises two parts: a written task (I.1) (summary writing) and an oral exam part (I.2).

I.1 For the written task of summary writing, the examinee shall receive a text related to his/her chosen stream and track within the BA program.

Stream: North American Studies

Stream: English Studies

Tracks: British Literature and Culture; Linguistics and Communication

The examinee is expected to produce a summary of 250-300 words of an original text of 600-800 words. Assessment shall be implemented through an analytical scale including the following aspects: ideas / communication quality, structure / text cohesion, linguistic accuracy / grammatical correctness, linguistic appropriateness / proper vocabulary. The maximum score is 20 points.

I.2 In the oral part of the exam, the language aspect of the oral performance of the candidate on a topic from the BA state exam list of topics shall be marked by a separate assessor. The assessment shall be completed on an analytical scale, in relation to: coherence and fluency of the oral performance, application of responsive/interactive skills, linguistic accuracy, and appropriacy of vocabulary and pronunciation.

The maximum score is 20 points. Out of the maximum scores of 20 points each, the pass mark at the written and the oral part of the examination is 60% (12 points). The grading scale shall be as follows:

0-11 failure

12-13 satisfactory

14-15 medium

16-17 good

18-20 excellent
